

Legal Assistant Today

1995

INDEX TO ARTICLES

(To purchase a back issue, call James Publishing at (714) 755-5450. For reprint permission, fax requests to Leanne Cazares at (714) 751-5508. To purchase reprints of articles, call University MicroFilms and ask for the Article Clearinghouse (800) 521-0600)

CAREER — ADVANCEMENT/DEVELOPMENT (SEE ALSO COLUMNS - CAREER ADVICE)

The Few, The Proud

These instructors show that experience, training and know-how make all the difference in the classroom — not a J.D.

By Frances Whiteside, January/February 1995

Making the Jump to Attorney at Law

What these paralegals-turned-J.D.s have to say about becoming a lawyer and practicing law may surprise you.

By Shari Caudron, January/February 1995

Paralegal Entrepreneurs

A look at 10 paralegals who have become their own bosses and cashed in on their expertise.

By Chere B. Estrin, July/August 1995

CAREER — COPING ON THE JOB

It's 10 P.M.: Do You Know Where Your Life Went?

Overtime work can impress your boss, enhance your skills and even add to your invaluable. But is it legal? And does it really make or break your career?

By Barbara Rosen, November/December 1995

Keep Focused: Total Time Management

Simple changes can help you regain control of your time and become a more effective professional.

By Jennifer Moore, CLA, July/August 1995

Understanding Law Firm Culture

An in-depth look at what creates poor law firm management and what you can do to see that your personal and professional needs are met.

By Shari Caudron, July/August 1995

When Are You Giving Legal Advice?

A look at how to tell when you are giving legal advice and how to tell someone gently that you are unable to help them with their problem.

By Barbara Rosen, July/August 1995

Working Scared

Paralegals and attorneys are not immune from the workplace violence plaguing the rest of American society. Learn to do all you can to protect yourself, your firm and your loved ones.

By Shari Caudron, November/December 1995

Your First 100 Days on the Job

From learning a firm's culture to finding out about "unwritten rules," the early impressions you make at a new job last the longest.

By Florence Kanofsky, July/August 1995

CAREER — JOB HUNTING

Crossover Hits

Life outside the law firm has never looked better for paralegals seeking new opportunities, better pay and/or a chance to use their hard-earned skills outside the traditional legal arena.

By Deborah Bogen, November/December 1995

Finding a Job in 1995:

What's Hot, What's Not

A look at what will give you that hiring edge, both this year and through the 90's.

By Barbara Rosen, with inset by Diane Patrick, January/February 1995

Land of the Giants

Where do paralegals fit into the picture at some of this country's virtual legal giants? Find out what legal assistant managers from 20 of the nation's largest law firms say.

By Steve Cohn, March/April 1995

CAREER — TRENDS

All Of These People Are Paralegals

Today anyone can call him- or herself a paralegal. Are things fine as they are, or should more be done to define the profession?

By Mark Curriden, September/October 1995

Bottom Line Changes

A look at alternative billing systems and how they will affect you and your firm.

By Rebecca Morrow, May/June 1995

A Career of One's Own

By offering legal know-how and computerized services, your career as a freelance paralegal can really take off.

By Patricia S. Eyres, January/February 1995

Outsourcing and Other Trends in Law Firm Libraries

When Chicago's Baker & McKenzie said goodbye to their librarian staff, the move touched a nerve in law offices across the country. What does the future actually hold for this profession, and how will the expected trend affect paralegals and their jobs?

By Kathy Shimpock-Vieweg, September/October 1995

Paralegal/Librarian Needed

Paralegals can expand their horizons and help insulate their careers by combining substantive legal knowledge with computer and research skills and entering the realm of the law firm librarian.

By Andrea Banchik Yelin, September/October 1995

Refighting the First Amendment Battle

A non-denominational "freedom fighter," the Rutherford Institute relies heavily on paralegal Ron Rissler to win their cases.

By Mark Curriden, July/August 1995

Welcome to the Club

Find out which state bars are leading the pack in terms of paralegal involvement, and how this involvement is helping to promote the profession and ward off increased paralegal regulation.

By Steven Cohn, September/October 1995

Will Law Firms Face the Music?

Despite their dismal progress to date, law firms are facing external pressure to diversify.

By Shari Caudron, May/June 1995

COMPUTERS & TECHNOLOGY

(SEE ALSO COLUMNS - CREATIVE COMPUTING AND PARALEGALS ON-LINE)

Are You Ready for Cyberspace?

The information superhighway is here. Find out how to make best use of the Internet in your job and lead your firm into the 21st century.

By Andrea Banchik Yelin, May/June 1995

A Beginner's Guide to Imaging

A rundown on the basics of imaging and how it can work in your law firm.

By Joshua J. Kaufman, March/April 1995

Could You Have the Jerusalem Virus?

Your computer could get "stoned" and you wouldn't even know it — until a key file just wasn't there one day. Learn how to protect yourself and your computer.

By Jack Baldwin-LeClair, September/October 1995

Improve Your Pace With PACER

Obtain court records and dockets right from your own desk with just a few computer clicks.

By Angela B. Miro, CLAS, May/June 1995

Law Firms in the 21st Century

A look at the newest advances in electronic mediums for law practices, and what legal assistants can expect from all the new technology.

By Mark Curriden, September/October 1995

Legal Technology Superstars

A look at some of the latest and greatest in docket control software.

By Brent D. Roper, May/June 1995

Macros In Your Future

Don't let the word "macros" frighten you. These computer short-cuts can make your job a whole lot easier.

By Leslie G. Pattinson, January/February 1995

From Networks to the Net

Results of LAT's 1995 computer survey.
November/December 1995

Top 25 Computer Tips

A mini-booklet of computer tips for myriad software programs.
May/June 1995

When Eight Isn't Enough

Follow these simple tips to virtually eliminate lost and misfiled documents in your office.
By Michael B. Tinker, January/February 1995

CORPORATE LAW

(SEE ALSO COLUMNS - CORPORATE)

Buyer Beware

Paralegals often deal with express or implied warranty litigation, and their understanding of the law is paramount to the success of their cases.

By Diane Baldwin and Frances Beall Whiteside,
November/December 1995

When ACME, Inc. Is No Longer

Thousands of corporations are dissolved each year, and failure to dissolve them in a timely manner can cause major problems.
By Angela Schneeman, November/December 1995

EDUCATION & TRAINING

(SEE ALSO COLUMNS - STUDENT'S WORKSHOP)

A Look At Minimum Educational Standards for Paralegals

While the controversy continues over what type of education paralegals should have, the American Association for Paralegal Educators comes forward with standards.

By Diane Petropoulos, January/February 1995

Paralegal Schools & Graduate Placement

Which schools' graduates find jobs faster? Our survey of paralegal schools across the country shows you which graduates are finding the jobs.
January/February 1995

ETHICS

(SEE ALSO COLUMNS - ETHICS)

Beyond the "Chinese Wall"

An in-depth look at new laws and court decisions regarding conflicts of interest and paralegals.

By Steven Cohn, November/December 1995

Defining Paralegal Ethics

Should there be a code of ethics for paralegals that is backed by regulations when such ethics are violated?

By Hope Viner Samborn, January/February 1995

FREELANCE PARALEGALS

(SEE ALSO COLUMNS - FREELANCING)

A Career of One's Own

By offering legal know-how and computerized services, your career as a freelance paralegal can really take off.

By Patricia S. Eyres, January/February 1995

INDEPENDENT PARALEGALS/REGULATION & LICENSING

All Of These People Are Paralegals

Today anyone can call him- or herself a paralegal. Are things fine as they are, or should more be done to define the profession?

By Mark Curriden, September/October 1995

Earning a Living Independently

With some independent paralegal firms grossing seven figures, opportunities abound.

By Hope Samborn, March/April 1995

What You Had To Say: Independent Paralegal Services

By Gina Farrell Gladwell, May/June 1995

LAW LIBRARIES

Outsourcing and Other Trends in Law Firm Libraries

When Chicago's Baker & McKenzie said goodbye to their librarian staff, the move touched a nerve in law offices across the country. What does the future actually hold for this profession, and how will the expected trend affect paralegals and their jobs?

By Kathy Shimpock-Vieweg, September/October 1995

Paralegal/Librarian Needed

Paralegals can expand their horizons and help insulate their careers by combining substantive legal knowledge with computer and research skills and entering the realm of the law firm librarian.

By Andrea Banchik Yelin, September/October 1995

LITIGATION

(SEE ALSO COLUMNS - LITIGATION CORNER)

Finding Her Way Through A Cloud of Smoke

Document specialist Susie Foulds is heading up the largest, document-intensive litigation case of the century, involving 59 independent attorneys.
By Mark Curriden, January/February 1995

In Search of the Magnum P.I.

Tips on finding reputable and licensed private investigators that will help you win your case.
By Adria Henderson and William J. Taylor,
July/August 1995

Is a Case On Point?

Beware! Different key facts in your case and a previous court opinion may lead to the application of an entirely different law or principle.

By Bill Putman, March/April 1995

It Just Blew Up In My Hand

Winning a product liability case can largely fall on your shoulders. This step-by-step guide will help you gather the facts you need to win.
By Sally Frantzen, September/October 1995

On the Road Again

Everything you need to know to make sure your next out-of-town trial runs smoothly from start to finish.

By Jennifer Dwight, May/June 1995

The Smoking Gun (Fiction)

It had literally fallen into my lap from a neglected file. Now, I searched in vain for what could be the key to our case.

By Jennifer Dwight, January/February 1995

Trial of Wrongful Death Cases

The client in a wrongful death case plays a pivotal role. Your job is to help them prepare for what lies ahead during these emotionally charged times.

By Kathleen Reade, January/February 1995

LITIGATION SUPPORT

Behind Door Number Three...

Selecting the best litigation support vendor for your case isn't a matter of chance; it's up to you.
By Despina Kartson, March/April 1995

How to Get What You Need

Step-by-step guidelines from legal vendors on what you can do to get the best service possible on your next case.

By Despina Kartson, March/April 1995

The Nuts and Bolts of Civil Case Organization

A simple system for case organization usable on any PC, and compatible with any word processing software.

By Jennifer Dwight, March/April 1995

So, You Want To Be A Litigation Support Manager?

Paralegals with first-hand knowledge of the litigation process can make great "LSMs" and improve the quality of work assignments given to all legal assistants.

By Despina Kartson, September/October 1995

When is Computerized Litigation Support a Good Idea?

A look at computerized litigation support and how to determine whether automation is right for a particular case.

By Patricia S. Eyres, March/April 1995

MANAGEMENT

(SEE COLUMNS - PARALEGAL MANAGER'S DESK)

PERSONAL INJURY

(SEE COLUMNS - PERSONAL INJURY)

PRO BONO

Calling All Volunteers

The tradition of doing legal work "pro bono publico" — for the good of the public — is being taking up with a fervor by paralegals.

By Shari Caudron, March/April 1995

RESEARCH

(SEE ALSO COLUMNS - RESEARCH TIPS)

Turning the Tables on Your Research

Tables are an often overlooked research tool to access legal authority and other information. Some new ways to put them to use in your legal research.

By Fran Turner, July/August 1995

Charting a Path Through the Tax Research Maze

Finding and retrieving federal tax information is easier than you would expect.

By Andrea Yelin, March/April 1995

WRITING

(SEE ALSO COLUMNS - MISS GRAMMAR AND LEGAL WRITING)

Is a Case On Point?

Beware! Different key facts in your case and a previous court opinion may lead to the application of an entirely different law or principle.
By Bill Putman, March/April 1995

COLUMNS

A Quick Look At...

The CLA Exam

By Rebecca Thompson Nagel, January/February 1995

The Internet

By Gina Farrell Gladwell, May/June 1995

The Typical Legal Assistant Today Reader

By Gina Farrell Gladwell, July/August 1995

Proposed Tort Reforms

By Stacey Hunt, September/October 1995

The ABA Nonlawyer Practice Report

By Mark Curriden, November/December 1995

Ask The Expert

Will Paralegal Courses Transfer to Law School?

By Shelley G. Widoff, January/February 1995

More About Paralegals and Law School

By Shelley G. Widoff, March/April 1995

Certification and Your Career

By Shelley G. Widoff, May/June 1995

Inside Moves to Paralegal

By Shelley G. Widoff, July/August 1995

Beyond the B.A.

By Shelley Widoff, November/December 1995

Career Advice

Independent Paralegal Career Tracks

By Chere B. Estrin, January/February 1995

How to Spend Your Summer Vacation

By Chere B. Estrin, March/April 1995

Creative Computer Careers

By Chere B. Estrin, May/June 1995

Life in a Small Firm

By Chere B. Estrin, September/October 1995

Careers in Teaching

By Chere B. Estrin, November/December 1995

Corporate

Confidentiality and the Corporate Paralegal

By Angela Schneeman, March/April 1995

What's New in Incorporating?

By Angela Schneeman, May/June 1995

Creative Computing

Solving Training Issues with Individual Software

By Jack Baldwin-LeClair, January/February 1995

CD-ROMs From West Publishing

By Jack Baldwin-LeClair, March/April 1995

Got Trademarks? Put Away the Cleansers and Get On-line!

By Merrill J. Berland, May/June 1995

Novell's WordPerfect 6.1

By Jack Baldwin-LeClair, July/August 1995

Legal VIEWS and PREMISE Publisher

By Jack Baldwin-LeClair, November/December 1995

Ethics

Education and Training = Competence

By Deborah K. Orlik, January/February 1995

Sex and the Legal Assistant

By Deborah K. Orlik, March/April 1995

Can You Bill Two Clients for the Same Hour's Work?

By Deborah K. Orlik, May/June 1995

Trial Publicity

By Deborah K. Orlik, July/August 1995

The Legal Technician/Attorney Alliance

By Deborah K. Orlik, September/October 1995

Legal Advice Revisited

By Deborah K. Orlik, November/December 1995

Family Law

Qualified Medical Child Support Orders

By Sally Andress, March/April 1995

Violent Crime

By Sally Andress, July/August 1995

Gender Bias, Economics and Custody

By Sally Andress, November/December 1995

Freelancing

The Ideal Freelance Paralegal Service

By Pamela Everett, March/April 1995

Your Business — What's In A Name?

By Pamela Everett, July/August 1995

Law Librarian's Shelf

Cite Fight at the DOJ Corral

By Kathy Shimpock-Vieweg, March/April 1995

When Your PC's A Real Pain

By Kathy Shimpock-Vieweg, July/August 1995

Finding the Right Media Mix

By Kathy Shimpock-Vieweg, November/December 1995

Legal Writing

Writing Tips: Memo or Brief?

By Kathleen Miller, November/December 1995

Litigation Corner

Court Reporters and State Certification

By Stacey Hunt, March/April 1995

The Ethics of Modernization

By Stacey Hunt, May/June 1995

Drafting Document Requests

By Stacey Hunt, July/August 1995

Curtain Call: Trial Exhibits

By Stacey Hunt, September/October 1995

Piercing the Corporate Veil

By Stacey Hunt, November/December 1995

Manager's Desk

Legal Assistant Managers as Mentors

By Deborah Thompson, July/August 1995

Conducting Terminations

By Rebecca Bike, September/October 1995

Get the Recognition You Deserve

By Patsy R. Pressley, November/December 1995

Miss Grammar

Sufferin' Suffixes

By Karen Larsen, Ph.D., January/February 1995

Gazillions of Spaceballs

By Karen Larsen, Ph.D., March/April 1995

Party Times

By Karen Larsen, Ph.D., May/June 1995

Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Gender

By Karen Larsen, Ph.D., July/August 1995

Personal Injury

Organizing the Case for Trial

By Stephanie A. Danelson, January/February 1995

Medical Records Summaries and Medical Chronologies

By Stephanie A. Danelson, May/June 1995

Calculating Economic Damages

By Stephanie Danelson, September/October 1995

Research Tips

The Rules of Court

By Richard Leiter, March/April 1995

Using Law Reviews and Journals

By Richard A. Leiter, May/June 1995

Citation Rules

By Richard A. Leiter and Joan Mombieux, July/August 1995

On-line Factual Discovery

By Richard A. Leiter, September/October 1995

Student's Workshop

Paralegal Education Programs: Making an Informed Choice

By Diane Petropoulos, January/February 1995

Computer Competencies for Students

By Diane Petropoulos, May/June 1995

Tort Reform and the Paralegal Student

By Diane Petropoulos, September/October 1995

Legal Assistant Today

1995
INDEX TO ARTICLES